BACKGROUND

The Leandro Remedial Plan (or Leandro Plan) addresses the court decision for Leandro v. State of North Carolina.

- ◆ THE CASE - challenged the state to provide all children an adequate public education.
- ◆ THE DECISION - public education delivery is deficient relative to the state's constitutional standard.
- ◆ THE REMEDY - lawmakers must bring the public school system into compliance.

minimum standard of education

Leandro v. State of North Carolina

The North Carolina Supreme Court decision affirms:

A sound, basic education is the constitutional right of every child.

“Thousands of students are not being prepared for full participation... in the society in which they will live, work, and engage as citizens.”

- Judge W. David Lee

North Carolina Superior Court
Leandro v. State of North Carolina

WHAT'S IN THE PLAN?

The Leandro Plan is a court-ordered schedule of policies to be adopted by the North Carolina legislature over an eight-year period.

The plan addresses the inequity and funding inadequacy preventing student access to opportunities including:

- early education (Pre-K)
- qualified educators & leadership
- safe facilities with modern technology
- support staff (school nurses, psychologists etc.)
- academic and language specialists
- enrichment programs and career training

CALL TO ACTION

The North Carolina legislature is responsible for FULL implementation and funding of the Leandro Plan -- anything less fails to meet compliance.

Unless we act NOW, another generation of children will go without the educational opportunity they are owed.
